men will meet at the Town House from 9 to 11 o'clock in the forenoon, instead of in the afternoon, as usual.

Next Sunday morning services will be resumed at the Universalist after a vacation of one month. Morning services will be held at 10:30, Sunday-school at 11, and the senior Y. P. C. Y. at 7 p. m. to which all are cordially invited. This evening

(Friday, September 3d) the Rev. J. H. Smith their friends and families to the annual about thirty made an excursion to Fort

Point last Tuesday evening and took supper at the Amherst House.

Next Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, services will be resumed at the Union church.

Last Tuesday evening the Ladies Aid

Society convened with the Old South church held a social in the vestry. There was a good attendance notwithstanding the storm of the morning and the cold in the evening. The program was as follows: A reading of the minutes, prayer by Miss

Ellis, singing by the choir, a paper by Miss Fletcher Torrey, who gave very interesting accounts of her trip to the World's Fair, ice cream and cake were served during the evening, about all of which was disposed of.

Miss Minnie Matheson of Weymouth has been making a short visit with Mrs.

Gardner.

Mr. Bishop and the workmen have been in its construction in an illustration of the visiting relatives in town, returned home last Saturday night.

Those who attended the ball game at Weymouth were disappointed in not seeing one of the finest exhibitions of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Robinson, who

Mr. Benjamin Threlk is quite sick, be-of the work done by him.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Perry is to be congratulated upon a new arrival of a handsome doll from an uncle in Haverhill.

The yacht race at Quincy was an open regatta and not a contest of the kind usually known as a "yacht race." The fact was that the boats were not designed for racing, but for cruising.

Therefore, Mr. Hunt's yacht, the "Eagle," which was the fastest of the fleet, was not a professional racer, but a professional sailor.

Mr. Hunt's yacht was a very pleasant one, and it was very pleasant to sail.

their state had good reason to expect
to win the game. The base ball gods however favored the Institute by letting the victors catch their heads in the dark. The very first inning discomposed Debra and finding he had no support he was forced to retire. The result was that the Institute won the game.

THE QUIET MAN.
When I was quite a young fellow and hadn't long joined the army, I used to belong to a fashionable club in London, the members of which were just what you would call about to be a nobleman—as well as would be, always in some shape or other, and spending their whole time in riding, shooting, gambling or fighting—all except one.

BASE BALL.
Ineffable, 41; Brains, 22.
The Brains came for their second lesson in ball playing Saturday and got a good one. With lamps absent and with the darkness in the room, the boys of
